24 CHROMOSOMES - SUPER POWERS

Anéeka: Most starseeds on Earth have 24 chromosomes. It is only that their chromosomes are not activated, remaining as 22 terrestrial or human chromosomes and those that are missing remain as "junk" DNA according to human science. I just clarify that some humans have 23 chromosomes, but never 24.
Estella: Can these 2 extra chromosomes be detected here on Earth? For example, through the test's PCR tests or others?
Anéeka: Yes. Great danger here. I don't think through the PCR test, but like this, it collects genetic material, and they are entering it into a database for obscure purposes. That is, they try to detect those who are not human, to annihilate them. Prevent that they enter the Earth, that they take away their power, that they enlight souls and consciences, when coming to wake them up.
That's what starseeds naturally do. Wake up others and take them away or free them. The starseeds are dangerous, maximum danger for the cabal, that's why they try to stop them with everything they have.
Cristina: You have commented before "I just clarify that some humans have 23 chromosomes, but never 24". What do you mean humans alone or also starseeds? Does that mean that the starseeds have 24?
Anéeka: Starseeds have 22 or 23 activated chromosomes, plus 1 or 2 more deactivated. Upon awakening of their consciences and depending on their intellectual and consciousness level, their 24 chromosomes can be activated, which betrays them as non-human.
There are awake humans, but they do not exceed 22 or 23 chromosomes, 23 is rare but it exists, since 99.99% of them have 22 chromosomes. Only one in 1000 or more will have 23 chromosomes as I understand.
If the person is a starseed and remembers everything by her own awakening, it can (although not necessarily) activate its 24 chromosomes. As a side effect of this, it cannot have offspring with a 22 - 23 chromosome human.
But it is not only a matter of chromosomes and that's it. What happens is that the last one, the 24th, activates advanced mental functions and that is the terror of the Cabal, because they become unmanageable.
Not to mention the possibility of having non-human abilities "superpowers" not just telepathy. And this is very real. It looks like something from Marvel or X-man comics, but that's based on starseeds. I mention the huge number of children who have been entering since 2000, with skills that the media suppresses. See the work by Mary Rodwell from Australia. Another example is Wim Hof with his ability to control heat and cold. I don't know if he is aware or not, but that's not "human."
But it's far from being the only one. There are already many starseeds below that are known to be non-human. With whole memories, not with doubts. That is, they remember who they were before, where they lived, what their houses were like, their things, their friends, their animals and even their family. Even their ships, how the bathroom door operates, how it is inside. Everything.
But they must walk the earth as humans because they chose to. They walk without fear, or not with the same of humans. Because they know they are eternal, not from there, immune to death, sometimes even wishing it, not because of suicide but because of returning home. They are whole aliens 'handling' a human body, they look normal, they walk down the street in jeans, they use buses, they pay taxes.
But they are not human.
They don't obey the rules, they can't stand traditional jobs. But here the important thing is that they know that they are not human, because they know and remember what they are and why they are there. Those are the ones that the Cabal wishes to eliminate, because otherwise they will overthrow the entire system. They are unmanageable, impossible to corrupt, manipulate, or subdue. They see through the agendas, they read everything, they understand everything. They cannot be bought with money, nor manipulated. They are a danger.
That is why they want to eliminate them and why so much attack against children today, more than they already attacked them. Prevent them from growing up, to become whole with powers, especially mental ones.

Estella: You have commented "It looks like something from Marvel comics or X men, but that is based on the seeds." That already sounded very close to me... masking the truth.
Anéeka: Yes, it's the same old formula. Masking and mocking the truth, accusing it of being fiction. Using that these things are not possible, according to the agreements of manipulated human science.
I see it today in Yázhi, with my own eyes. That is simply not normal, nor by the standards here. She has what is called superpowers, but that escapes human credibility. The other day Khila and Raguel were throwing stuffed dolls at her, while she was jumping on her bed, giggling with laughter. The rest of us just watched. The stuffed animals never reached her. Not because she dodged them. But because they hit an invisible force field, about half a meter from her. She explains how she does it, it's not crazy or outlandish. She does it, and with pure logic. It is science, not magic although in the end it ends up being the same. And the little girl does that and more.
Estella: Wooow, amazing. Thanks for sharing.
Anéeka: You are welcome. Children come like this, and I see that not only on Earth. Here too. They come to break schemes, to impose different parameters, to prove that everything is mind.
Cristina: Wow, amazing Yazhi, and how does she do it? About creating a shield?
Anéeka: Yes. And she doesn't even put out a hand to activate it, as a stop sign as they would think. It just happens, there is something there that stops everything. That protects her.
Estella: Just by imagining it, she already creates it?
Anéeka: Yes, it seems so, she materializes what she imagines. Manipulates reality and matter. Using only the mind.
